Saturday, March 6. 1703.

From the Paris Gazette, dated March 3.

Strasburg, February 23.

ON the 18th of this Month, while the Army was marching, the Marſhal de Villars caus'd a Bridge to be laid over the Rhine above this City, between Blobſheim and Altenheim. Which was done with ſo much diligence, that it was finiſh'd the ſame day, and he paſs'd and repaſs'd it to ſee whether it was fit for Service, and then eſtabliſh'd his Head Quarters at Altenheim. On the 19th, the Troops that remain'd on this ſide paſs'd the Rhine, commanded by the Marqueſs de Lanion and the Count de Druys. Other Troops arrive continually, which take the ſame Route. On the 20th, 5 Battallians came near this City, and yeſterday 2 Regiments of Infantry and 2 of Dragoons: So that at preſent the Army is above 30000 Men ſtrong. On the 20th, the Enemy abandon'd the 3 Imperial Towns of Offembourg, Gengenbach, and Zell, ſituate in the Valley of Kintzig. They likewiſe retir'd out of the Town of Wilſtet, within a League of Kehl, in a place where the Kintzig divides it ſelf into 2 Branches; they alſo quitted Raſtad in the Marquiſate of Baden. There was found in Offembourg 23 pieces of Cannon, beſides what were in ſeveral Forts; and 4 Braſs Cannon are brought into the Camp, which were quitted by the 12 Battallions commanded by General Bibra. The Fort of Kehl being inveſted on the 19th, the beſieg'd made a great Fire from their Artillery. The Garriſon is very numerous, Prince Lewis of Baden having reinforc'd it to 4000 Men, before he retir'd: He likewiſe put in a great Quantity of Proviſions and Ammunition: So that the place being very ſtrong, in all appearance the Siege will laſt long. The Marſhal de Villars has caus'd the Bridge to be brought down the River from Altenheim, within a League of this City, and another to be laid below the Iſland of Ruperſchau.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, dated Feb. 26.

The Marſhal de Villars, to ſhew the eſteem he has for Prince Lewis of Baden, and after what manner Generals ſhould treat one another, has ſent Sauve Gardes to ſecure his Seat of Raſtad, and all the Lands depending on that Eſtate.

Monſieur de Lapara is gone to ſerve as Ingenier-General, in the Siege of Kehl.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, dated March 2.

They write from Strasburg of the 23d, That a great number of Cannon is drawn out of that Town and Citadel, to batter Fort Kehl from both ſides of the Rhine.

An extraordinary Courier has brought Advice, That the Marſhal de Villars, waiting till the Artillery to be employ'd againſt Fort Kehl is all arriv'd, is march'd with 4000 choſen Men, to attack ſome German Troops that are among the Hills.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, dated March 5.

Letters from Strasburg ſay, That the Trenches before Kehl were open'd in the Night between the 15th and 16th, on which occaſion only 1 Soldier was kill'd, the Enemy making no great Fire. The ſame Night the Trenches were carried on within 50 Paces of the firſt Ditch of the Hornwork.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 10.

Heilbron, March 2. 'Tis ſaid the French Army is ſo entrench'd about Kehl, that it will be difficult to relieve that Place; The Garriſon of Kehl conſiſts of 3000 Men, and the Hereditary Prince of Durlach, is in it; but 'tis fear'd they are but ill provided with Forrage. All the Forces of Swabia are Poſted in the Black Forreſt, and in the Valley of Kintzig, to Guard the Paſſes. Prince Lewis of Baden's Baggage is come hither; and ſome Cannon and Mortars are ſent to him from hence.

Frankfort, March 4. The French are Poſted between Offenburg and Kehl, and have begun to draw a Line of Circumvallation about the latter; but the wet weather incommodes them very much. Prince Louis of Baden is Poſted not far from Stolhoven with ſeveral Thouſand Men, and has his Head Quarters at Bihl. A Line is making from Stalhoven to the Rhine; and the Troops have plenty of Proviſions, but Forrage is ſomething ſcarce with them. We have advice that the French batter Fort Kehl very Vigorouſly, from 3 Batteries on this ſide of the Rhine, and from one which they have made in an Iſland in the Rhine; as alſo that a Detachment of the Enemy, endeavouring to break through the Kintziger Dale were repuls'd.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 6.

Frankfort, Feb. 28. They write from Raſtat, That 5000 French attempting to force a Paſſage through the Kintziger Dale, were thrice repuls'd by Count Proſper of Furſtemburg.

From the Paris Gazette, dated March 3.

Metz, Feb. 23. The Boats that were laden in this City with Artillery, Ammunition, and Materials uſed in making Bridges, being ſent from hence on the 15th Inſtant; we began the ſame Day, to lade above 100 Boats more, with Biſcuit, Bread, Meal, Corn, Oats, Forrage, and other Proviſions: All which went away on the 20th, and 'tis given out for certain that they are deſign'd for revictualling the Caſtle of Traerbach, and for ſubſiſting the Army of the Marſhal de Tallard, in a Country where the Enemy have been canton'd ever ſince the beginning of Winter.

On the 20th, the Regiment of Horſe of Barentin began their March for Alſatia. Notwithſtanding the Report of the Enemies having rais'd the Siege of Traerbach, they have continued to Cannonade and Bombard it in ſuch a manner, that almoſt all the Buildings are ruin'd. They were 8 or 10000 Men when they ſat down before it. The Marſhal de Tallard left Thionville on the 19th, and arriv'd the ſame Day at Triers. Letters from which Place of the 22d adviſe, that the Army is arriv'd there and in that Neighbourhood to the Number of 25000 Men: That the Marſhal de Tallard fir'd 7 Cannon ſhot, for a ſignal to the Garriſon of Traerbach, and that at the Noiſe the Enemy order'd their Artillery, that was before Embark'd on the Moſelle, to fall down that River, and made ready to draw off from before that Place.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, dated Feb. 26.

'Tis ſaid the Marſhal de Tallard, is to engage the Elector of Triers, by Perſwaſion or Force, to accept of a Neutrality, and that then he will put ſuccours into Bonn.

Triers, March 2. On the Approach of the Marſhal de Tallard with 15000 Men, the Allies, who had but 5000, drew off on Saturday and Sunday laſt from before the Caſtle of Traerbach.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 10.

Coblentz, March 4. The Marſhal de Tallard having furniſh'd Traerbach with what was neceſſary, has made Monſieur de Bar Governour of it, and has paſs'd the Moſſelle to throw 8 Battallions into Triers; tho' ſome will have it that his Paſſage over the Moſelle was but a feint, and that he is marching towards Kirn, to drive the Palatine Troops from thence.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 3.

Cologne, Feb. 27. The Regiments that are already march'd up the Rhine, will be follow'd by ſeveral others. On the 25th the Generals Auverquerque, Dopf, Goor, &c. went from hence under a Guard of Horſe and Dragoons to Coblents.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 6.

Cologne, March 2. The Generals Auverquerque, Dopf, &c. are at preſent at Rhynbach, 3 Leagues above Bonn, probably to prevent the Marſhal de Tallard's putting any Succours into Bonn.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 10.

Vienna, Feb. 24. Dr. Timoni is returned from Adrianople, whether he was ſent by my Lord Paget, before his departure from hence, about the Affair of Novi; ſince his coming, we learn that the preſent Grand Vizier has ratified the Treaty touching Old and New Novi, and the Limits which were in diſpute, in the ſame manner as it was drawn up by my Lord Paget's direction.

Venice, Feb. 23. It is adviſed that 500 Imperial Horſe being advanced to Buon Porto, attack'd the French that were there, taking ſome Priſoners and putting the reſt to flight, and Poſted themſelves in that Place.

From the Harlem Courant, dated March 6.

Amſterdam, March 5. Letters from Geneva of the 23d Ult. adviſe, That 300 Malecontents of the Sevennes who were convoying ſome Proviſions, were ſet upon by 3 Companies of the Regular Troops commanded by Monſieur Julien, but the latter were utterly routed; 8 of them eſcap'd into a certain Village, where they were knock'd on the Head by the Women: After which Monſieur Julien came to the Village to look for his Men, but the Villagers being fled away, he found none but 2 old Men with their Wives and Children. Theſe Letters mention another Action, in which 700 of the King's Troops were beaten by the Sevennes, the latter loſing 150 Men.

At the coming away of theſe Letters from Geneva, they had advice of a third Action between Monſieur Julien and the Sevennois, in which Monſieur Julien himſelf was killed.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, dated March 2.

Monſieur Julien burns all the Villages, and other places, that he finds hold Intelligence with the Rebels in the Sevennes and has taken ſome of the Ringleaders, whom he hopes to draw to a Confeſſion, which may be of uſe to him in ſuppreſſing the reſt.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, dated March 5.

The Marſhal Montrevel arriv'd at Niſmes the 16th of laſt Month; whence he is gone to the Sevennes. On the 20th Ult. he put out an Ordonnance, forbidding all Perſons whatſoever to go into the Province of Languedoc, without Paſſports from the Places they come from.
